Edwards taught at Ohio University's Communiversy Progam for nearly ten years and based her Master's thesis, "Why Teach Parapsychology" on the tenets and need for intuitive, yet critical, thinking in the University setting,

Edwards is the Director of a non-profit, educational research institute dedicated to the pioneering and emerging field of Human BioAcoustic Biology. Through the concept of voice spectral analysis, Edwards has demonstrated that the human voice is a unique frequency representation of the structural, emotional and processing aspects of the body. Courses developed from this technology, pioneering by Edwards, were offered to physicians through Capital University's Integrative Medicine program (offered through Georgetown Univeristy - now defunct).

Edwards has been the subject of over a dozen documentaries such as "Energy Medicine", "Sonic Apothecary,,"; "Doorway to a New Medicine", "Miracles of non-Medicine", "Breaking the Sound Barriers of Disease" and "The Business of Disease"; all focused on alternative health practices. She has published extensively and has been included in over 30 books including the 2011 publication, "Sound Secrets" by Jill Matteson which concentrates entirely on Edwards' work. Larry Trivieri included a chapter on Edwards' work in his publication, Health on the Edge.

The www.SoundHealthPortal.com is dedicated exclusively to the work and research of Sharry Edwards.

An international speaker, author, radio personality and leader in the field of Sound Health, Edwards is regularly invited to conduct lectures and workshops for professionals concerning the body's own unique ability, through the evaluation of vocal biofrequencies, to diagnose and prescribe for itself.
